

WHEN WILL MY SUMMIT VAN BODY BE BUILT?

- Summit schedules our production on a first-come first-served basis, driven first by available production capacity and then by the estimated time of arrival (ETA) of the truck chassis.
- After the chassis ETA is provided, Summit will schedule production assembly of the van body the third week following the chassis arrival if production capacity is available.
- If production capacity is not available, Summit will schedule production assembly of the van body in the next available week that contains capacity.
- Contact your Summit salesperson to determine the next week with available production capacity.
- Completion of the van body is Friday the week after production assembly is scheduled, if the unit does not require any outside processes such as paint, refrigeration units, decals, custom work, or any other process that Summit does not perform internally.
